

Affygility Solutions Now Accepts Bitcoin as a Payment Option in Purchasing OEL/ADE monographs

March 03, 2015 03:56 PM Eastern Standard Time

BROOMFIELD, Colo.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Affygility Solutions, a leading provider of occupational health and safety services and software to the life science industry, today announced it is now accepting bitcoin as a form of payment for OEL Fastrac monograph purchases. Offering customers another way to purchase online, customers can now shop our ever growing library of OEL/ADE monographs available on oelfastrac.com, and for the first time ever beginning today, easily pay for their OEL/ADE monographs using bitcoin.

"We are extremely excited about offering bitcoin as a new payment option," said Dean Calhoun, CIH, Chief Executive Officer for Affygility Solutions. "The adoption of bitcoin as a payment option is the latest demonstration of our focus on innovation and meeting the needs of international clients." Customers can intuitively find and select bitcoin as a payment option at checkout along with all other methods accepted on the site, including Visa, MasterCard, and American Express. To purchase OEL/ADE monographs using the newly accepted cryptocurrency, customers simply indicate bitcoin as their method of payment and then follow a few steps to safely and securely complete each transaction.

About OEL Fastrac™

OEL Fastrac™ is an innovative online service by Affygility Solutions that provides life science professionals with high-quality documents containing the necessary information to properly classify and protect their employees from the hazards of potent active pharmaceutical ingredients. In addition, at no additional cost, OEL Fastrac monographs contain the acceptable daily exposure limit (ADE) required under Risk-MaPP. OEL Fastrac is a paradigm shift from the traditional way these documents are provided, resulting in significant cost savings and greatly reduced lead-time for pharmaceutical manufacturing and contract manufacturing companies. Expert occupational toxicologists and industrial hygiene professionals with decades of industry experience prepare all OEL Fastrac documents.
